A Spiritual Meditation for the 32nd Sunday in Ordinary Time - Year C The Dedication of the Lateran Basilica

Today's Hallelujah verse celebrates the fact that the Lateran Basilica, in Rome, has been consecrated and set aside for a holy purpose in service to the Lord:

I have chosen and consecrated this house, says the Lord, that my name may be there forever. 2 Chron 7:16

Moreover, while God dwells in the heavens and everywhere on the earth, there are places where it is easier to encounter the holiness of God and to experience his love in a more profound way.

When the Roman Emperor Constantine granted religious freedom to Christians in the year 313, the Lateran became the first basilica and the parish church of the Pope until the 15th century. Thus, the Feast of the Dedication of the Basilica of St John Lateran In Rome is one of the few feast days that takes the place of the normal Sunday observations.

And so, St John Lateran is celebrated today as the "mother and head of all the churches of Rome and the world." Sacred scripture, one of the two pillars of our Catholic faith, the other being sacred tradition, is both symbol and reality that we are called to be God's temple, giving life to the world as Church, the people of God. In baptism, we become temples where the Spirit of God comes to dwell in us.

The human Church as God's people - of course will make mistakes. Who doesn't? Nevertheless, notwithstanding all it's human weakness, out of this community of love, the Church is our touchstone of something great, transcendent, and special - the Bride of Christ who is the Son of God, the always present bridegroom. The Church of Christ is one holy, apostolic, universal, united entity - the Temple of the Holy Spirit, a place of prayer and thanksgiving. Remember, you are God's building.
