A Spiritual Meditation for the 12th Sunday in Ordinary Time - Year A

St. Thérèse of Lisieux, the Little Flower, said that not all of us are called to do great things, but all of us are capable of doing small things with great love. The first reading from the OT book of Kings is a story about a woman who recognized that Elisha was a man of God and acted accordingly. Without asking for anything in return from God or the prophet, she instead dedicated herself to service and simple hospitality. In this she offered a simple, welcoming hospitality and served the Lord with humility. And so, ultimately the greater reward that we receive is the chance to express our love and generosity, so that the gift is in the giving.

The responsorial psalm invites us to trust in the providence of God. As we open up to God completely, we become a people dedicated to the service of God and neighbor, which allows us to see beyond the superficial into the deepest level of truth. By faith, therefore, we are called to choose Jesus to be the centerpiece of our lives, to base our hope and trust in our Lord. Moreover, we choose Christ and stop choosing "things," thus dying to them because they cannot bring us the peace and joy which we are seeking.

The Apostle Paul in today's second reading refines our choice for God. "Consequently, you too must think of yourselves as dead to sin and living for God in Christ Jesus." Choosing God is often a struggle, but making the right choice ultimately calls us out of darkness into the light.

Subsequently, the value of many of our actions is not based on who will see them or how great they seem to be. Rather, the value is reflected by the love in our lives. Besides, we can never really know how these small actions may change the world. One small action can have a great impact even though it may be anonymous. An action that produces a positive response can resonate in us the value of "doing the right thing" with love.

St. Anthony M. Zaccarian Apostolate Prayer

June: That through the intercession of St. Francesco Saverio M. Bianchi, the Sacred Heart of Jesus may change, shape, and transform our plans, so that we may seek Him alone in every circumstance: in prayer, in work, in meetings, and in our daily routine, accepting to be sent on a mission of compassion for the world, in which He is the source from which all consolation flows.

Intercession for Life
May our shrine community come together to become a place of welcoming and assistance for all mothers in need; let us pray to the Lord.
